EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The Department of English, Rajiv Gandhi University, Arunachal Pradesh organized One-Day International Webinar on “Conceptualizing Contemporaneity of Gandhi” on 25th August 2020 in collaboration with Gandhi-King Global Initiative, Stanford University Centre, USA & Gandhi-King Foundation, Hyderabad, India. The Chief Patron of the webinar was Prof. Saket Kushwaha, the Honourable Vice Chancellor of Rajiv Gandhi University and the Patrons were Prof. Amitava Mitra, the Pro Vice-Chancellor, RGU, Prof. Tomo Riba, the Registrar, RGU and Shri Prasad Gollannapalli, Managing Trustee, Gandhi-King Foundation, Hyderabad, India, respectively. The webinar aimed at discussing contemporaneity of Mahatma Gandhi. In this international webinar peace activists, Gandhi enthusiasts, scholars and teachers from different colleges and universities and common people with no institutional affiliation across India and abroad participated in a greater number. The webinar discussed different trajectories of Gandhian philosophy and socio-cultural engineering of the colonial and postcolonial India and their cogency and effectiveness in today’s socio-cultural and economic climate. Out of 1656 registrations both from India and abroad, around 750 participants participated in the webinar on Zoom and Facebook platforms. The international participants were primarily from Srilanka, Japan, Oman, Saudi Arabia, Canada, USA, Germany, etc. The speakers were from different prestigious universities in India and abroad. They were Prof. Paul Bueno De Mesquita Director, Centre for Non-violence and Peace Studies University of Rhodes Island, Kingston, Prof. Clayborne Carson, Director, Martin Luther King Jr. Education and Research Institute, Stanford Institute, Palo Alto, CA, USA, Prof. Isao Takagi, Soka University, Japan, David Kirshbaum, Nonviolence International Representative to the United Nations, New York and Prof. Naresh Kumar Sharma, University of Hyderabad, Hyderabad, India. They spoke and interacted with participants on different areas of Gandhian philosophy, ethics and social activism. They emphasized on the relevance of Gandhian thinking in 21st century and its global outreach. In the e-inaugural Prof. Paul Bueno De Mesquita Director, Centre for Non-violence and Peace Studies University of Rhodes Island, Kingston was the keynote speaker who spoke extensively on the global importance of Gandhi. Prof. Saket Kushwaha, the Honourable Vice Chancellor, RGU chaired the e-inaugural (08-09 am IST) session and concluded the session by presenting his perspective on Gandhi in today's world. And subsequently, the webinar was conducted in two sessions – morning (09-11am IST) and evening (06-08 pm IST) sessions. The morning session after the e-inaugural was moderated by Shri. Prasad and in that session Prof. Clayborne Carson, Prof. Isao Takagi, David Kirshbaum, and Prof. Naresh Kumar Sharma shared their scholarship on Gandhi with an exclusive focus on contemporary relevance of Gandhi. Prof. Amitava Mitra, the Honourable Pro Vice Chancellor, RGU was the Chief Guest for the evening session. It was moderated by Shri Prasad and David Kirshbaum was the learned speaker. The latter spoke on different modalities through which violence operates and intervention of peace as the therapeutic to resist violence in order to restore order in the society. In his understanding Gandhi provided that necessary intervention of peace to put violence in abeyance in order to restore societal harmony. Each participant was given a certificate of participation. For the said e-event Dr. K C Mishra, HoD, Department of English, RGU was the coordinator and Dr. C K Panda and Dr. P N Piraji were the convener and co-convener respectively.

Many students after the completion of their study have been able to secure employment in Government and Private sectors.

1.3: 1.5 About the Sponsoring Agency:                      Rajiv Gandhi University

1.4: Background: About the Issue:

Modern Indian imagination has been largely shaped by M K Gandhi. The socio-political, economic, ethical and aesthetic engineering of modern India have undergone massive revamping under Gandhi. The revolutionary rethinking that he instituted in order to carve an image of strong nationhood emphasizing the essential oneness of people striding all barriers artificial and archaic along the line of perennial geographical and historical identity continues to sustain its guiding presence. The percolation of Gandhian thinking and ethos into the socio-political and aesthetic spheres of India both during the colonial and post colonial periods of Indian history seem to have invigorated the spirit of India. The spirit of Indianness against the colonial trickeries of balkanisation of India finding or manufacturing every possible faultline both imaginary and actual was overwhelmingly inspired by Gandhi in order to uproot a system which seemed to have had deep anchorage in Indian history. Conflicts exist. Conflicts are motors of history. But Gandhi and his syncretic system of thinking continue to be the therapeutics to conflict resolution. Therefore, anachronism does not seem to touch Gandhi. Gandhi as a system of thinking constantly fuels and refuels Indian history and imagination. The purpose of this international webinar is to investigate how the modern Indian consciousness has been configured and reconfigured by the Gandhian ecosystem and his contemporary importance in the socio-political and aesthetic thinking of India.

1.2 Objectives

- To discuss the historicity and contemporaneity of Gandhi
- To investigate the notions of self-reliance in Gandhian parlance
- To examine the impact of Gandhi in the contemporary socio-political and ethical re-thinking
- To analyse Gandhi and his imagination of a cohesive nation
- To discuss Gandhian philosophy and its decisive impact on politics in India and overseas.

1.5: Expected Outcomes:

- The process of re-contextualization of Gandhi would help the participants to understand the importance of Gandhi in contemporary India
- It would help the participants to revisit Indian history
- It would enable them to realise the importance of self-reliance in order to taste the true meaning of freedom
- They will be able to reconnect the call for self-reliance then and now
- It would help them to create Gandhian ecosystem in their own capacity towards strengthening the idea of oneness of India

1.6: Themes:

- Self-reliance
- Sarvodaya
- Peace
- Non-violence
- Gandhi and modern Indian consciousness
- Contemporaneity of Gandhi
- Scio-cultural harmony

2.1 INAUGURAL SESSION:

E-Inaugural Ceremony

Day I (25/08/2020)

An online seminar was held today by Rajiv Gandhi University, Doimukh on the relevance of Mahatma Gandhi in today's world, titled "Conceptualizing Contemporaneity of Gandhi" by the university's Department of English. Presided over by the honourable Vice Chancellor Prof. Saket Kushwaha, the 'webinar' commenced at 8 am and was completely held online in compliance with the Government's order on social distancing in educational institutes. This programme – a brain-child of Dr. Chandan Kumar Panda – was attended by speakers and participants from across the world.

The event started with Dr. P.N Piraji from the Department of English, RGU, welcoming the speakers and participants, which was followed by a soulful rendition of Mahatma Gandhi's favourite bhajan, 'Vaishnava Jana toh..'. The day's proceedings were set in motion by Dr. K.C Mishra, Head of the Department of English and coordinator for the event. Thereafter, Dr.C.K Panda, Convener, elaborated for the participants, the objectives of the webinar in lucid terms. He spoke at length about the centrality of Gandhian principles in realizing the socio-political and economic goals of India in the 21st century. He referred to the renewed impetus being laid upon the philosophy of 'self-reliance' as the way forward for the country and how Gandhian philosophy can be considered to be the cornerstone of such a progressive vision. He also spoke about the invigorating potential of Gandhian ethical system and his syncretic vision that can prove instrumental in bridging the ever increasing social fissures. Dr. Panda's observations were followed by Dr. GVVSDS Prasad, managing trustee at the Gandhi King Foundation, who spoke briefly about the need to create the ecology of peace and how it is an existential necessity, particularly during these trying times. He pointed out for the audience how Gandhian principles need continuous revisitation by everyone to address the challenges of living in an exploitative society. Thereafter, Prof. Paul Bueno De Mesquita, Director, Centre for Non-Violence and Peace Studies, The University of Rhodes Island, Kingston, in his keynote address, attempted to deal at length about the expanse of Gandhian worldview and how it transcended the national boundaries and influenced social and political leaders in the world arena. He particularly spoke about the Gandhi- Martin Luther King (Junior)'s ideological proximity. His lecture moved around this axis primarily and in the process endeavored to draw the evolutionary trajectory of the Gandhian principles and the influence it had on King's ideologies and actions. He succinctly brought out the larger vision that drove these two leaders who transformed the lives of millions across the globe. Apart from speaking about the political and cultural specificity of their actions, Prof. Mesquita also highlighted the evolutionary curve of their cosmic vision about human civilization. He spoke about the American thinkers who affected Gandhian belief system and particularly mentioned Adin Ballou in this context. He ended his lecture affirming the fact that human beings are essentially programmed to be humane and kind and Gandhian ideologies tap into this essential goodness. Linking the challenges of the raging pandemic at present and its associated threats of disrupting the social structure, Prof. Mesquita argued that Gandhian ideals, premised on 'Sarvodaya' can alone upset this downward civilizational spiral.

The session was then addressed by the Honourable Vice Chancellor of Rajiv Gandhi University, who told the audience about the necessity to recognize peace as the central principle of life and how the practice of Gandhian philosophy can alone sustain a holistic and conducive social order which can benefit all the stake holders. He argued that Gandhi will continue to be relevant, because Gandhian principles affirm life.

2.2. TECHNICAL SESSIONS:

Date- 25/08/2020

Technical Session 1

(9.00 am to 11.00 am)

Resource Person: - Prof. Clayborne Carson

Prof. Carson began his talk with the question as ‘where do we go from here?’ since now we have come to this phase where we have already confronted two great battles i.e. battles against colonialism and imperialism. Still the visions and dreams of King and Gandhi are yet to be realized. He said that there’s a long way to realize those visions. Every nation is built on the base of principles of human rights but now there are people who violate the very base of their nation. Prof. Carson then raised concern saying that what would King and Gandhi say now if they were to see the present scenario of the world? Have we really achieved the visions of theirs? To this, Professor said that the only reliable are the people; only they can help protect the human rights. We must realize the faults in ourselves and should begin to build the nations on the principles of human rights in real sense. Further, he was of the opinion that the use of technology should be implemented more in order to globalize people around and to mobilize ourselves. Professor also referred black minister James L who had great influence on Indian activists. He then concluded his talk with a suggestion that young people should understand the real visions of King and Gandhi and should inculcate their ideals for better tomorrow in favor of human rights. He remarked that ‘it is a beginning of a long dialogue’.

Resource person: Prof. Isao Takagi, Dean and Professor, Department of Economics, Soka University, Japan

Topic: Gandhi’s Spiritual Philosophy and Soka Philosophy and Peace Movement

The task of teaching values has become more complex in the twenty-first century due to the increasing contextual use of values which may be politicised or depoliticised. Adding to the fact that a sense of isolation and fragmentation introduced in all areas of life and society, individual human being has been forced into a state of isolation. There can thus be no denying of the relevance or the need for revival of the philosophies of Makiguchi, founder of Soka Gakkai and Gandhi. They had a similar understanding of ‘truth’ as the law of the universe which in turn influenced their respective values – the system of creation of value or Soka philosophy and the creative use of the value of ahimsa or non-violence. Prof. Isao Takagi beautifully drew a connection between Gandhi's spiritual philosophy and Soka philosophy and how they create a path for peace movement.

Tracing the similarity between the two philosophies, he drew on four of Gandhi's spiritual legacy namely Optimism (his absolute trust in humanity), Gradualist Activism (Non violence as a plant of slow growth), Paternal Populism (extraordinary communication with mass of ordinary people) and Holistic Vision (approach to life aspired to integration and harmony). Likewise, he showed how Soka philosophy believed that the purpose of life is the creation of value i.e. the capacity to find meaning, to enhance one's own existence and to contribute to well being of others extending beyond nation state to new horizons of human community.

Both the philosophies intend towards a 'global citizenship' that would embody the three essential elements – the wisdom to perceive the interconnectedness of all life and living, the courage not to fear or deny differences and the compassion to maintain an imaginative empathy beyond one's immediate surroundings – the elements that identifies a bodhisattva in Buddhist teachings. Prof. Takagi believes that bodhisattva ideals could transform our world by recognizing the innate goodness of human nature, influencing our view on world and society through interdependence and interconnectedness to create a better and qualified global community of creative coexistence and sustainability.

Resource Person: Prof. Naresh Kumar Sharma, University of Hyderabad

Prof. Naresh Kumar Sharma from the University of Hyderabad, while delivering his speech, talked about the economic perspective of the Gandhian principle. Throwing some light on the difficulties that our economy has been going through for last few years, he drew the listeners' attention to economic problems, growing inequality in institutions like the universities, ecological concerns, and responsible consumer behaviour and so on. Short term narrowly defined gains have created so much of nuisance that the economic system itself has become an obsolete one. He drew in three particular aspects of Gandhian perspective. They are, forced localisation or Swadeshi should be the basis of society i.e. something that the present society needs to look back, focus on the people's knowledge and socially and ecologically responsible economy i.e. also the village-based economy.

Villages can both be the preserver and the contributor to a strong economy. If villages are taken as a basic unit of the democracy, it deserves equal representation and that is why the people require proper knowledge. Success and prosperity must not be taken as desperation. Hunger for resources causes degradation in nature and threat to flora and fauna. Therefore, localisation must not be for name's sake, rather it emphasises on what we have realised in terms of resources and balanced human well-being. According to Gandhi, participation of the villages must be ensured.

In this context, Prof. Sharma talked about the 1945 debate between Nehru and Gandhi. In his views, Nehru was sceptical in thinking if villages could be the building blocks of the society keeping in view the virtues of modern civilization. He was of opinion that villages have all the deficiencies and ignorance. How would the new Indian society of our imagination be organised in this manner? In response to his scepticism, Gandhi replied that simplicity resides in villages. If attention is not paid to it, we are doomed. In villages, people are not in a hierarchical structure, but they support each other. Thus, hoping that the villages won't easily be swayed with the wind of urbanisation and technology, Prof. Sharma ended his talk.

Technical Session 2

(6.00 am to 8.00 am)

The evening session of this one day webinar commenced in a similar serene tone as did the first, with a rendition of a 'bhajan' that was one of Mahatma Gandhi's favourites, called 'Raghupati Raghav'. Prof. B. Nayak of the Dept. of English, RGU welcomed all the guest speakers and participants and thanked the Hon'ble VC and Pro VC of the university, for their constant support and encouragement. The honourable Pro Vice Chancellor, Prof. Amitava Mitra then proceeded off the evening's lectures with one of the most unique aspects of Gandhi and his teachings, which is often overlooked – his economic ideals. Prof. Mitra explained that although Gandhi was never a professional economist, he advocated several important policies for the Indian economy which were later incorporated into the constitution. Raising the material wealth as well as the cultural wealth of the masses was one of Gandhi's dearest desires. According to him, Gandhi wanted to empower the agricultural sector and the rural sector long before it was actually done by the later governments of free India. He also said that Gandhi, being a man of the villages himself, wanted all the 5.5 lakhs villages across India to be 'Aatma Nirbhan' or self reliant and his 'Khadi' movement is a good example of this desire. For Gandhi, Prof. Mitra said, there was an acute need for the equalisation of resources, which is why he said that we need to meet the "need of the people, not their greed" – the results of the cumulative ignorance of which can be seen in the environmental problems of today. The Prof. Mitra ended by congratulating the dept. for successfully completing not one but two international seminars on similar topics in the last 20 days.

Resource Person: - Mr. David Kirshbaum, representative of Non Violence International in the UN

Mr. David Kirshbaum, representative of Non Violence International in the UN spoke next. He began by asking two fundamental questions that the world struggles with today – 'How do we create peace that lasts?' and 'Why so much violence around the world?’ He continued by reflecting on the fundamental aspects of violence, peacemaking and peace building and discussed the works of Johan Galtung, a retired professor in the University of Oslo, Norway, whose ideas also resonate with the teachings and principles of Gandhi. Mr. Kirshbaum then went on to give an in-depth explanation of Galtung’s theories of peace and conflict, in which he states that violence was of three kinds, namely, personal violence, structural violence and cultural violence. These three areas of violence propagate two kinds of peace which are negative peace and positive peace. Negative peace promotes peace-making and prevents violence while positive peace promotes peace building and transformation of individuals and society. According to him, Galtung believes that ‘conflict’ is inherent in nature and reality, and there is not much that humans can do about it. This theory of Galtung finds a remarkable parallel with Gandhi’s ideologies required to create a lasting peace, for Gandhi too was interested in positive peace, or the type of peace that can bring about a transformation in the society. Mr. Kirshbaum further discussed the four principles of Gandhi, which are ‘Satyagraha’ (the pursuit of Truth), ‘Ahimsa’ (non-violent approach in all actions and all interactions), Swaraj (self-rule) and Sarvodaya (progress of all or universal upliftment). Gandhi’s principles and Galtung’s ideas have been incorporated into the UN’s framework of cultural peace that upholds the values of Truth, Non-Violence, Self-reliance. The lecture was brought to an end by a Q & A round in which several questions were answered by Mr. Kirshbaum and the moderator Shri Prasad Gollanapalli, which included enquiries on topics like positive violence, Ahimsa, Culture of peace, internal colonization and yoga.

Vote of Thanks-

The session and the Webinar culminated with a vote of thanks given by the convener Dr. C.K Panda wherein he thanked the Hon’ble VC and Pro VC, the registrar of RGU, the Dean of languages, the entire panel of speakers, the faculty members, the participating audience and the entire team behind the seminar. Dr. Panda also expressed his gratitude towards the press and the Department of Tourism, Govt. of Arunachal Pradesh and the partner organiser – The Gandhi King Foundation for making the whole event a successful one.

PART 3: MAJOR TAKEAWAYS

3.1- ACADEMIC CONTEXT

3.1- Academic Context:

The critical exercise on Gandhi and his philosophy is extremely important from the academic point of view. In the Humanities and the Social Sciences Gandhian ethics, epistemology and logic play a pivotal role in understanding modern Indian history. The International Webinar on “Contextualizing Contemporaneity of Gandhi” revisits Gandhi and reinvents the importance of Gandhi in the contemporary academic climate. It tries to reinvigorate the academic understanding of Gandhi as a crucial historical phenomenon. The historicity of Gandhi in the academic parlance needs revision. The webinar recognizes the vigor and effectiveness Gandhi even today in resolving much of our contemporary socio-cultural-political and economic issues. Gandhian ethics, epistemology and logic were not just historically urgent to address the issues of colonialism. They are equally relevant today. Since Gandhi is a key constituent of study and research in the Humanities and Social Sciences, webinar foregrounds the importance of contemporanizing Gandhi. It may help the academicians to introduce different courses on peace, non-violence, social cohesion, sustainable ecosystem etc. In academic environment Gandhi needs not be just a phenomenon historically important, the contemporaneity aspect of Gandhi needs to be looked into.

3.2 – RESEARCH CONTXT

The International Webinar on “Contextualizing Contemporaneity of Gandhi” revitalizes the nature of research on Mahatma Gandhi in the Humanities and Social Sciences. It emphasizes on contemporanizing Mahatma Gandhi in doing research on Gandhi. The research on Gandhi as potential area of contemporary conflict resolution and global peace and sustainable and cohesive human-nature ecosystem needs to be undertaken.

3.3- POLICY IMPLICATIONS

In the higher education policy formation towards socially sensitive and community cohesive research, webinars of this kind are extremely beneficial. These webinars if undertaken across India would help the policy makers to promote the ideas of social cohesion, gender sensitivity, humanitarianism and the need for amity and cooperation towards a syncretic nation building and cohesive nationalism. This Webinar on Gandhi may help the policy makers to rethink on the importance of Gandhi by introducing institutes of peace studies, centres for non-violence etc.

GANDHI-KING FOUNDATION, HYDERABAD, INDIA

ABOUT THE STATE OF ARUNACHAL PRADESH: Arunachal Pradesh, known as the 'The Land of the Rising Sun', is also called the Orchid state of India. It is a state of mountainous terrains, valleys and highland plateaus reaching about the height of 23,280 feet from the sea level. It is in the extreme north-eastern part of the Country and shares borders with certain Indian states and the Kingdom of Bhutan in the West, Tibet Autonomous Region of China to the North, Myanmar (Burma) to the east. The state has been mentioned in ancient Hindu literary works such as the Kalika-Purana and the epics- the Mahabharata and the Ramayana. During the British colonial era it was known as the North East Frontier Agency (NEFA). The state enjoys a	subtropical and humid climate receiving one of the highest rainfall and is filled with evergreen rainforests. Distinct ethnic groups officially designated as Scheduled Tribes have different social structures and speak about 50 plus different languages along with the Indo-Aryan languages like Assamese and Hindi and English. People generally practice indigenous faiths and also Hinduism, Buddhism and Christianity with different cultural practices. ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY: Rajiv Gandhi University (formerly Arunachal University) is the premier institution for higher education in the state of Arunachal Pradesh, India. Since its establishment on 4th February, 1984 in the posh campus on the top of Rono Hills at Doimukh,	it has been steadily striving to achieve excellence in the field of education. The University has secured second position in All India Central University ranking in a national exercise conducted by the Union Ministry of Education using various parameters. Its Centre for Bio-diversity has got the distinction of having the potential for excellence. The University offers under graduate, post graduate, M.Phil. and Ph.D. programmes with different professional courses for training and certificate programmes. Many faculty members, researchers and eminent speakers of the country and abroad visit this University for research, delivering lectures and other academic work. The University is 25 Km away from the state capital city Itanagar and located atop the

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT:

The Department of English was established in July, 1990 and since then it has been imparting teaching and research at M.A., M.Phil. and Ph.D programme levels in British Literature, World literatures in Translation, ELT and Literary Criticism. Many eminent speakers visit the Department to deliver their lectures at different times of the year during seminars, conferences and special or series lectures. Many students after the completion of their study have been able to secure employment in Government and Private sectors. The Department also runs a Certificate Course in Communicative English.

ABOUT THE COLLABORATION

The present one-day International Webinar is the result of a very meaningful collaboration of Rajiv Gandhi University, Arunachal Pradesh; Gandhi-King Global Initiative, Stanford University Centre, USA & Gandhi-King Foundation, Hyderabad, India

INTRODUCTION:

Modern Indian imagination has been largely shaped by M K Gandhi. The socio-political, economic, ethical and aesthetic engineering of modern India have undergone massive revamping under Gandhi. The revolutionary rethinking that he instituted in order to carve an image of strong nationhood emphasizing the essential oneness of people striding all barriers artificial and archaic along the line of perennial geographical and historical identity continues to sustain its guiding presence.

The percolation of Gandhian thinking and ethos into the socio-political and aesthetic spheres of India both during the colonial and post colonial periods of Indian history seem to have invigorated the spirit of India. The spirit of Indianness against the colonial trickeries of balkanisation of India finding or manufacturing every possible faultline both imaginary and actual was overwhelmingly inspired by Gandhi in order to uproot a system which seemed to have had deep anchorage in Indian history. Conflicts exist. Conflicts are motors of history. But Gandhi and his syncretic system of thinking continue to be the therapeutics to conflict resolution. Therefore, anachronism does not seem to touch Gandhi. Gandhi as a system of thinking constantly fuels and refuels Indian history and imagination. The purpose of this international webinar is to investigate how the modern Indian consciousness has been configured and reconfigured by the Gandhian ecosystem and his contemporary importance in the socio-political and aesthetic thinking of India.

PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES:

- ✦ To discuss the historicity and contemporaneity of Gandhi
- ✦ To investigate the notions of self-reliance in Gandhian parlance
- ✦ To examine the impact of Gandhi in the contemporary socio-political and ethical re-thinking
- ✦ To analyse Gandhi and his imagination of a cohesive nation
- ✦ To discuss Gandhian philosophy and its decisive impact on politics in India and overseas.

OUTCOME:

- ✦ The process of re-contextualization of Gandhi would help the participants to
- ✦ understand the importance of Gandhi in contemporary India

- ✦ It would help the participants to revisit Indian history
- ✦ It would enable them to realise the importance of self-reliance in order to taste the true meaning of freedom
- ✦ They will be able to reconnect the call for self-reliance then and now
- ✦ It would help them to create Gandhian ecosystem in their own capacity towards strengthening the idea of oneness of India

An e-certificate would be issued to every participant within two weeks of the event.
