NEW PARADIGMS OF RESEARCH IN COMMERCE AND MANAGEMENT

29th June 2020 to 3rd July 2020

CONCEPT NOTE

Commerce and Management as an academic convergence has become a veritable force in articulating economic activity across the world. Indeed, this discipline has come a long way from the academic corridors to an ongoing discourse that encompasses research, innovation and practice. While science and technology may change the way human beings interact, it is through the transactional activity of commerce and management that shape the world order. Inventions and innovations percolate to the common man through commercialisation of abstract ideas. New ideas and novel dimensions in research in Commerce and Management pave the way for academia to equip themselves with the skills to usher in new research perspectives and knowledge narratives.

WHO CAN APPLY ?
