Dear Sir

Hope everything is fine at your end.

This is further to our telephonic discussions. Attached please find list of accessible eBooks with hyperlink. Below are two ways to explore eBooks.

Method 1: Click on hyperlink of the eBook you want to access and it will open the home page of that book.

Method 2: Click on below link to see all the books for which your University is having access.

Link to see all eBooks accessible to your institute: <https://www.taylorfrancis.com/search?isLicensed=true&key=>

Other important information:

Website to access eBooks: www.taylorfrancis.com

Access Procedure:

When user is within the campus they have to simply click on any of above mentioned links to have desired results as mentioned below. This will take users to the home page wherein they can search for topics as per their requirement and search results will appear. Below is a sample screenshot of the accessible title home page to download eBooks.

If you need any further details, please let me know

Regards
