Background

The world has been changing rapidly with the revolution of technology. The labour oriented economy has been transformed towards capital centric model. We have been moving through different ages of industrial revolution. The society is dominated by knowledge economy and we have entered in the regime of 4th Industrial revolution. The United Nations has identified 17 goals that should be accomplished by all the member nations by 2030. So sustainability has become the emerging critical success factor for future trends of business. All these combined with the catastrophe caused by covid-19 is expected to cause large scale changes in all aspects of business, research and careers. This webinar has been designed to make people aware about the changes that are likely to happen in the future in different sectors and to how to develop skills and build a career in the future.

Objectives

- To understand the dynamics of Indian economy with special reference to management profession.
- To explore future trends and careers of management in primary, secondary and service sector.
- To understand and discuss emerging policy reforms for rural sector of the Indian economy.
