

MA IN MASS COMMUNICATION

The 'MA in Mass Communication' of Rajiv Gandhi University is a two-year (four semesters) programme consisting of theory and practical components, taught and learned through a combination of lectures, hands-on training and project execution.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- To put communication practices in context of the social and cultural milieu of the State of Arunachal Pradesh (where the University is located) and to sensitize the students to use media for development, particularly in response to the needs of development communication in the State as well as in other states in the northeast region.
- To equip students with the knowledge of theories and practices of communication.
- To impart training to the students in various areas of Mass Communication including Print, Radio, Television & Video Production, Web, Visual Design and Media Research.
- To create a body of core communication competency in Digital Media, Communication for Development and Documentary Film as the Department's forte.
- To enable the students to specialise in a particular area of mass communication as offered by the Department in addition to the areas of core communication competency.

PEDAGOGY

1. Approaches

- Students would need to go through a rigorous academic curriculum marked by continuous evaluation throughout the semester. The student's learning experience is enriched by a combination of lectures, hands-on training, tutorials and seminars. Emphasis is on independent thinking and critical understanding of media and their operations.
- The 4-semester course has a definite emphasis on learning through hands-on use of media equipment as well as working on content design- all directed towards the production of substantial media products on print, radio, photography and video.
- A regimen of strict deadlines on assignments prepares the students to step into the industry with confidence. Field visits/ study tours give the students a feel of 'on-the-ground' media operations.
- There is also a pointed emphasis on peer evaluation, which would hone the students' knowledge and skills for critical appreciation and analysis.

2. Departmental Elective Paper (DEP)

Keeping in line with the Department's objective of creating a body of core communication competency in Digital Media, Communication for Development and Documentary Film, these areas are offered for elective Specialization.

In the Fourth Semester, the student has to opt two Departmental Elective Papers – one each from elective Specialization and from elective Optional papers.

However, the papers for the Departmental Elective Paper-II (Optional) will be confirmed depending on the availability of seats and the interest of the student. The Department will offer the optional paper only if a minimum of 5 (five) students opt for it.

3. Media Project

In the Fourth Semester, students have to undertake a media project and submit a dissertation. The work may be either by a research thesis/content analysis/indepth study. The project work is compulsory. The viva – voce is mainly based on the project work.

4. Practical Exercises

Practical assignments are an integral part of the learning process at the Department. The faculty shall engage students in a series of individual as well as group assignments in each semester. A group assignment shall involve working in mixed groups to replicate real-life industry scenarios.

5. Study Tour

During the course the students will have two different tours for which the expenses will be collected from the students depending on the propose budget:

- A. Communication for Development Outreach Programme: Students in Second Semester will undergo a communication for development outreach programme to a place identified by the Department and submit a report.
- B. Media Exposure External Tour: Students of the Fourth Semester will undergo a media exposure tour along with faculty members to a place approved by the University. The places are to be so chosen as to be of educational benefit to the students.

During the tour, the focus shall be on visiting as many media organizations as possible and to interact with professionals. A report of the learning outcomes shall be submitted to the Department at the end of the tour. The tour report will be graded for final evaluation of the student.

6. Internship

All students will compulsorily undergo an internship programme in a recognized newspaper or news agency or advertising agency or public relations department or any other mass media organization approved by the department for a period of one month by the end of the Fourth Semester. The internship report along with specified certification from the interning organisation shall be submitted to the Department in order to attain graduation credits.

7. Open Elective Paper (OEP)

The Department will offer Photo Journalism as an Open Elective Paper (OEP) to students of other departments for credit attainment. Students of the Department of Mass Communication are not eligible to opt for this paper and will instead have to opt for an OEP offered by any other department of the University.

8. Attendance

Students shall attend the classes regularly and those who do not have 75% attendance will not be permitted to appear for the examination.
